DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-5, 8-14, and 17-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Hawley.

See especially Figures 4-9 and column 5, lines 37-39.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 6, 7, 15, and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hawley in view of Ash et al.

Hawley discloses an a method of manufacturing a blended wing aircraft and family of aircraft comprising providing a centerbody cabin comprised of a plurality of body modules of different size which are disposed in pairs laterally on each side of a center line of the cabin and where the modules can be disposed to construct different aircraft of the family. See especially Figures 4-9 and column 5, lines 37-39. Hawley fails to show an aft center body cabin that is coupled to the center body cabin. Ash et al teach, see especially Figure 1, that it is known to provide longitudinally separated modules, in addition to laterally separated modules, to form an aft portion of an aircraft center body. Motivation to combine is the clear advantages of greater flexibility of construction and the ability to increase the length of the aircraft without having to construct increased length lateral modules.

5. Applicant's arguments filed 4-28-2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The central argument that Hawley fails to disclose "uniquely configured" modules on a lateral side of the centerbody cabin is believed to be incorrect. Note that in column 5, lines 37-39, it is disclosed that the bays comprising the aircraft body need not be of equal width. In particular, this is made in reference to the embodiment of Figure 4, which comprises only two bays on each lateral side of the central body. Therefore, with only two bays on a side, if they are not of equal width, they must be uniquely configured since each of the two will be different in width and volume. Also, the transition section of Hawley reads on the claim language of "joining" the wings to the centerbody. In regard to the wings, column 5, lines 65-68, disclose commonality of the wings across the family of aircraft. All other issues are believed to be disclosed or obvious as cited in the action.

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
